MISSIONARIES ARE GUESTS AT M. S. RECEPTION

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Dunkelberger Are Presented With A Purse.

SAIL FOR INDIA 3 P. M. FRIDAY

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Dunkelberger, who have been in this country for some time after spending a quarter of a century as Lutheran church missionaries in India, were tendered a farewell and a purse of money by the Women's Missionary society and the congregation of Christ Lutheran church, Monday afternoon in the church parlors.

The local missionaries leave Thursday by motor for New York where on Friday afternoon they will sail for Tenali, India, aboard the S. S. Rex. They will be aboard ship three weeks.

It was the annual thank-offering meeting and was largely attended by members of the society and guests. Mrs. A. R. Wentz, president, presided.

Violin Solo

Augustus Hackman, of the seminary, gave a violin solo, accompanied on the piano by Robert Rau, of the college.

The scripture and prayer were given by Dr. R. T. Stamm and Mrs. Dwight W. Putman rendered a vocal selection.

Patrick A. Magale, a descendant of East Indians and now a student at the seminary, gave a brief history of the activity of the Lutheran church in New Amsterdam, British Guiana. He said the Lutheran church was 200 years old in India and he cited the difficulties that beset the missionaries in their early work in that country.

A pageant was presented by eight young women dealing with the story of missionary work during the past year. It was emphasized by the use of cardboard ships to illustrate the part ships played in this religious effort.

The Rev. Dr. Dunkelberger spoke of the sailing plans and the ambition of missionaries in the foreign fields.

Social Hour

Prayer and benediction were offered by Dr. Harvey D. Hoover. The Rev. Dr. Hoover acted for the Rev. Dwight W. Putman, pastor of the church, who was unable to attend the meeting because of the conference of the Adams county unit of the West Penn synod which was in session at New Oxford, Monday. The Rev. Mr. Putman is president of the county unit.

A social hour followed during which a cardboard ship was presented to the missionaries who were asked to "lift the anchor" at the end of which was the purse. The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Dunkelberger responded, expressing their thanks for the farewell reception and the gift.

Mrs. M. K. Eckert and Mrs. L. C. Keefauver sang a duet with Mrs. A. Z. Rogers at the piano. Violin selections were played by Mr. Hackman.

Refreshments were served. Those in charge of the meeting included: Mrs. Wentz, Mrs. Charles H. Huber, vice president; Mrs. W. E. Tilberg, secretary; Mrs. Charles H. Sanders, treasurer; Mrs. J. A. Holtzworth, statistical secretary; Mrs. W. C. Waltemeyer, secretary of the thank-offering; Mrs. M. K. Eckert and Mrs. J. A. Musselman.

Missionary Society Will Meet Wednesday

The women's missionary society of St. James' Lutheran church will meet in the ladies' parlor at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The subject for discussion will be, "The Oriental in the United States—In Industry."

Leaders for the meeting will be Mrs. Luther Sachs and Mrs. Edwin Bender. A business meeting will follow the discussion.

Local Colored Woman Is Fined

Myrtle Williams, colored, Long Lane, paid a fine of $15 and costs in police court at Frederick, Monday evening, on charges of driving a car without an operator's license and failing to stop at a through traffic stop sign. The Williams woman was arrested after the car she was driving figured in an accident at the intersection of Court and West Second streets, Frederick, Sunday evening, according to police. According to police reports from Frederick, the colored woman's car crashed into a machine driven by Emory C. H. Staley, of Walkersville, Maryland. No one was injured, but both cars were damaged.

LAST HANOVER VETERAN DIES

Wilson B. Harlacher, 93, Ex-pirates; Was Native of Adams County.

Wilson B. Harlacher, 93, native of Adams county and Hanover's last Civil war veteran, died at his home in Hanover, Monday evening, from complications and infirmities.

The deceased served with Company C, 202nd regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer infantry. He enlisted August 29, 1864, and was discharged August 3, 1865. At the time of his enlistment he was a miller and later followed the carpenter trade until his retirement. He was a member of the Hanover Church of the Brethren.

His wife, who before her marriage was Miss May C. E. Walter, died thirty years ago.

Mr. Harlacher was a son of the late William and Eva Beck Harlacher, of East Berlin.

He is survived by six children: Annie E. Harlacher, at home; Ella Harlacher, York; Mrs. Margaret Howland, Huntingdon; Mrs. Emily Swartz, at home; Samuel J. Harlacher, Hanover; Daniel M. Harlacher, Hanover. Besides his children he is survived by two brothers, Joseph B. Harlacher, Mechanicsburg, and William Milton Harlacher, Grant's Pass, Oregon; one sister, Mrs. Mary Strausbaugh, of Hanover; seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the home, with further services at Mummert's meeting house, near East Berlin, the Rev. Charles Baker, East Berlin, and the Rev. Jacob Myers, of Hanover, Brethren ministers, officiating. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

Mrs. Lida Hoffman Is Buried Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Lida Hoffman, Liberty township, who died last Friday, were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from her home, Rev. Philip Bower, of Emmitsburg, officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery here. The pall bearers were Jacob Elker, Albert Fienner, Charles Overholzer, Cecil Dunbar, Hugh Adelsberger and Frank Williams.

1,146 Ballots Cast in Town At 2 O'clock

Voters of Gettysburg and Adams county were going to the polls in greater numbers than ever before in today's general election.

With fair weather prevailing, with farmers and orchardists resting after strenuous fall harvests and with the electorate aroused as never before in recent years, a record-breaking percentage of the registered vote is expected to be cast.

In Gettysburg, 1146 men and women had voted in the three wards at 2 o'clock this afternoon. In the first ward, first precinct, where R. E. Zinn cast the first ballot, 225 out of 770 registered voters had been cast.

In the first ward, second precinct, 261 ballots had been cast out of a total registration of 838. C. C. Hutton was the first voter there.

In the second ward, 360 out of 940 registered voters had cast ballots up to 2 o'clock. Dorsey Dougherty was the first voter. The second ward's percentage of votes cast as compared with the registration was the highest in Gettysburg.

The greatest activity was witnessed at the third ward polling place in the court house, where 275 out of 1,122 votes had been cast up to two o'clock. Early this afternoon, a long queue of voters was lined up awaiting their turn to vote. C. A. Fox was the first voter.

In Rural Sections

When the polls close at seven o'clock this evening, it is believed that between 65 and 75 per cent of the county's registered voters will have cast their ballots.

At Biglerville 105 out of 427 voters had cast their ballots at one o'clock. At Fairfield 110 persons had voted at two o'clock. The registration there is 266.

In Bendersville, 51 out of a total registration of 275 had voted up to 1:30 o'clock and in Menallen township, 276 persons out of 675 registered had voted up to two o'clock.

Masquerade Party At Pastor's Home

Fifty-seven members of the Mite society of St. James' Lutheran church held a masquerade party at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Spencer W. Augst, York street, Monday evening. The members of the society were costumed and masked and part of the evening was spent guessing the identity of the various members. Afterward, refreshments were served.

BOROUGH WILL RESTORE OLD STREET GRADE

Sixth Street and Alley Near Factory Will Not Be Changed.

$535 COLLECTED DURING OCTOBER

John D. Keith, Esq., appeared before council Monday night on behalf of the Gettysburg panel company, to protest the changing of the grade of Sixth street and an alley along the panel factory. The new addition to the factory was built to conform with the then existing grade, Mr. Keith said, and no notice of a change in grade had been received.

The spokesman said that with the new grade the panel factory would be unable to load and unload trucks at its loading platform.

The question of who gave orders to change the grade came in for considerable discussion, but no one came forward to take responsibility.

The upshot of the discussion was that council voted to restore the former grade to Sixth street and the alley and to accept the offer of the panel company to install a pipe line to take water from the alley to York street. The panel company also agreed to place a curb around the property of Mr. Kapp at the corner of Sixth and York streets to prevent water from the alley and street coursing through his yard. Councilmen met at the site at 8 o'clock this morning to inspect the grades.

Improve Crossings

Council voted to sell its road tapper to a York contractor for $75. The Western Maryland and Reading railroad companies will be notified to improve the crossings on North Washington, Carlisle and North Stratton streets.

The highway committee was instructed to repair the alley in the rear of the Dean Phipps store, Chambersburg street, and to send the bill to Dean Phipps.

Council voted to improve the water table as soon as the school board lays a pavement on the south side of Buford avenue at the Meade school building.

Council voted to send notices to property owners whose pavements are in need of repairs.

A letter was read from C. B. McIlhenny, Philadelphia, offering to sell a portion of his lot on East Lincoln avenue to widen the roadway where the street adjoins the Harrisburg road. For 15 feet, Mr. McIlhenny asked $500 and for 25 feet he asked $1,000. Council took no action on either offer.

Council voted to purchase two loose-leaf books to be used in compiling the borough's ordinances.

The report of Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith for the month of October showed collections of $535, tabulated as follows: Guides' licenses, $2; peddlers' licenses, $43, and fines, $490. Council voted to refund $60 to Justice of the Peace John C. Shearer for fines illegally paid into the borough treasury.

President C. Ray Rupp presided at the meeting, which was attended by Councilmen D. C. Stallsmith, C. W. Epley, Charles T. Jacobs, J. B. Wineman, Emory C. Williams, Horace L. Bender and John E. Newman.

RED CROSS TO MEET THURSDAY

Annual Meeting of Local Chapter Will Be Held In Y. W. Building.

The annual meeting of the Adams county chapter of the American Red Cross will be held at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary, announced today.

The meeting is being held to lay final plans for the annual Red Cross roll call which opens on Armistice Day, November 11, and closes on Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

All roll call workers throughout the county and other persons interested in the work of the Red Cross are being urged to attend.

Reports of the treasurers of the chapter, the home service section and the junior Red Cross will be given and Miss McMillan will give her annual report of the chapter's activities during the year.

A speaker from national Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D. C. is expected to give the principal address.

Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, chapter chairman, will preside. After the meeting, Mrs. Donald P. McPherson, vice chairman of the chapter, will serve tea.

Captain Weaver Resigns As 1st Ward Councilman

Captain William G. Weaver, Baltimore street, commandant of a civilian conservation corps camp, near Emporium, and member of council from the first ward here, resigned his councilmanic position at the November meeting, Monday evening.

After accepting Captain Weaver's resignation, council, upon the recommendation of Councilmen D. C. Stallsmith and Emory C. Williams, of the first ward, unanimously elected William E. Biddle, Hanover street, a retired railroad, to the vacancy.

In his letter of resignation, Captain Weaver said that inasmuch as his C. C. C. position will probably continue for some time and because residents of the first ward should have full representation on council, he desired to resign, effective immediately.

The C. C. C. office was elected two years ago for a four-year term. Since taking his place in council, Captain Weaver said he has been able to attend but one meeting.

Mr. Biddle will serve Mr. Weaver's unexpired term.

Sister of County Women Dies Sunday

Requiem high mass for Mrs. Sylvia J. Riffle, widow of Clayton Riffle, who died Sunday at her home in Harrisburg, will be celebrated in St. Mary's Catholic church, Harrisburg, on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The Rev. Francis K. Fessler will be celebrant. Burial will be in the Holy Cross Cemetery, and the body may be viewed at the home Wednesday night.

She was 62 years old and is survived by four sons, Cyril G., George W., Porney J. and Lester J., all of Harrisburg; three sisters, Mrs. Agnes Hoffine, Mrs. Mayme Overbaugh, and Mrs. Emma Leppo, and a brother, Joseph Ackerman, all of McSherrystown, and a grandson, Cyril Riffle, Jr.

Well-Aimed Kick Balks Robbery of Local Man

A hard, well-aimed kick in a vital spot frustrated an attempt by two colored men to hold-up and rob Richard "Dick" Gormley, employee of the Carlisle street American store, shortly after midnight, Sunday morning.

Gormley's stout kick floored one of his attackers and Gormley made his escape.

Gormley was en route home shortly after midnight Sunday morning and had reached the dark section of Carlisle street, near the farm bureau building, just across the Western Maryland railroad tracks, when he was accosted by two Negroes. One was wearing a dark overcoat and the other a light jersey sweater.

One of the Negroes asked Gormley for a match.

Gormley ignored the request and kept on walking towards his home. The second Negro shouted "Get him!"

Gormley turned around just in

COUNCIL MOVES CURB MARKET NEXT TUESDAY

Will Be Located in First Block of South Stratton Street.

AREA WILL BE BLOCKED OFF

Gettysburg's curb market will be moved from center square to the first block of South Stratton street.

By action taken at the November meeting of council, Monday evening, the first block of South Stratton street between York and East Middle streets will be roped off to traffic and hucksters will be allowed uninterrupted use of that street from 6 a. m. until noon on Market days, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The change in location for curb market will be put into effect next Tuesday morning.

At the October meeting of council, action was taken fixing the closing time of market at 9 o'clock. Many of the county's hucksters object to 9 o'clock closing, saying numerous patrons do not get to market until almost closing time.

On the other hand, merchants in the business section of Gettysburg objected to allowing curb market to continue later than 9 o'clock because their customers were unable to find parking places in the central part of town.

To Mark Stalls
Both sides of the first block of South Stratton street will be made available to the hucksters, with angle parking permitted on both sides of the street. Before next Tuesday, stalls will be marked off on the curbs.

Although the closing time for curb market will be continued at 9 o'clock, thereby giving farmers who have sold out by that time an opportunity to leave, the street will be roped off until noon for the benefit of others. Marketmaster George B. Aughinbaugh was instructed to notify the farmers of the change in location.

Council voted to purchase the traffic light in operation for the past month at the intersection of Carlisle street and Lincoln avenue, and also to buy a similar light for use at the intersection of Baltimore and Middle streets. The plan to purchase the second traffic light did not meet with unanimous approval of the councilmen, although all (Continued on Page Two)

LEGION BAZAAR HERE THIS WEEK

Complete Plans for Farmers' Day and Armistice Day Celebration.

All arrangements were completed at the regular November meeting of the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post, No. 202, Monday evening, for the three days' bazaar and official observance of Armistice Day and a Farmers' Day celebration here this week.

The bazaar will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday and the Farmers' Day observance will be held Saturday. The 16th anniversary of Armistice Day will be held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the National cemetery with an appropriate program. Legionnaires and all other veterans in the county are urged to meet at the post home, Baltimore street, to march to the cemetery in a body.

Sunday evening at 7 o'clock the veterans will attend special Armistice Day services in the Prince of Peace Episcopal church, the Rev. A. A. Hughes, pastor, officiating. The veterans will leave the post home at 6:30 o'clock and march to the church in a body.

Parade Route Unsettled

The bazaar opens each afternoon of Thursday and Friday at 5 o'clock and continues into the night. On Saturday the bazaar will open at the conclusion of the Armistice Day parade, which moves at 2 o'clock.

The parade will form at the post home and move through the main streets of town, the exact line of march to be made public in a few days.

The legion voted not to permit any member of the post or their families to participate in the drawing for door prizes each night of the bazaar.

William Timmins presided at Monday's meeting as post commander. Frank J. Sionaker, service officer, discussed the veteran unemployment situation here. Superintendent McConaghy will be invited to address the veterans at the December meeting.

$25,000 Loot in Maryland Robbery

Bel Air, Md., Nov. 6 (AP).—An undetermined sum of money and all the mortgages, notes and records of McComas Brothers, feed lumber and hardware dealers here, were taken by robbers who blew the firm's safe.

Stanley McComas, Jr., a member of the firm, found the door of the safe blown from its hinges and the vault rifled when he went to open the establishment Monday.

Neither he nor his brother, Emory McComas, the other member of the firm, could say exactly how much money was stolen, since the cash slip was taken along with the other records. They estimated the amount at $400.

Sergeant J. J. Cassidy, fingerprint expert from the state police headquarters in Baltimore, was assigned to the investigation.

Stanley McComas estimated the loss roughly at $25,000 from the theft of the notes, mortgages and negotiable securities.

The Rev. George B. Ely, daughter, Miss Dorothy, and son, George, were dinner guests of Prof. and Mrs. Edwin A. Rice, of Arendtsville, Saturday evening.

Miss Margaret Dentler is spending some time at the home of Mrs. Waybright Rice, who is ill at her home in Biglerville.

D. E. McCauslin, of Bendersville, and J. H. MacBeth, of Aspers, have returned from a pheasant hunting trip to Macungie. They were accompanied by Mrs. McCauslin and Mrs. J. H. Howard, who visited with Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber at their home in Macungie.

Miss Annie Griest, of Biglerville, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Cole in the Narrows.

Miss Anne Bearley and Kenneth Oylor, of Harrisburg, were week-end guests of Mrs. Hanson Oylor at her home in the Narrows.

The Peter Pan players dramatic club of the Biglerville high school held a Halloween party recently at the Kleinfelter cottage at Pine Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. Fidelis Lingg, and daughter, Louise, of Biglerville, were recent visitors in Chambersburg.

Two Election Deaths Reported

Holland, Mo., Nov. 6 (AP).—Two men were shot to death, two critically wounded and several negroes beaten in election disorders today.

The disorders were supposedly prompted by attempts of negroes to vote. Race feeling has flared elsewhere in southeast Missouri in recent weeks.

Horace Ferrell, 33, a white man, and an unidentified negro were slain and Ferrell's father, John E. Ferrell, and Clarence Posey, identified as a well-to-do white farmer, were critically wounded.

The Ferrells and Posey were reported fired upon as they were bringing negroes into town to vote.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Becker, 249 South Washington street, today quietly observed the 40th anniversary of their marriage. They do not have any special observance.

YANKS SECOND IN AIR DERBY

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 6 (AP).—Colonel Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, the American team who flew an American plane from London to Melbourne Monday was awarded the second speed prize for the great air race.

The team's flight was officially clocked at ninety-two hours, fifty-five minutes, thirty-eight seconds and the prize was $7,500.

This time and prize is compared to that of the winners in the speed race, C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black, of England, whose time was officially given as seventy hours, fifty-four minutes, eighteen seconds for $50,000 and $2,500 gold cup.

Third in the speed event were Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller, of England, whose official time was 108 hours, thirteen minutes, forty-five seconds for $2,500.

PACIFIC PLANE HELD FOR DEBT

Los Angeles, Nov. 6.—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, history-making Australian aviator, and his navigator, Captain P. G. Taylor, toured clothing stores and the Hollywood movie lots Monday all unaware that their transpacific monoplane, Lady Southern Cross, had been attached for $1,750.

Returning to their hotel to dress for a civic banquet tendered in honor of their epochal flight from Australia to California, the fliers received the news with mingled amusement and disdain.

It appeared on investigation by the aviators' friends that P. M. Brokossky, a lawyer, entered a municipal court Monday and attached the $25,000 plane on behalf of H. Deverly, assignee for Thomas R. Catton. The amount of the alleged debt was $1,750 and it was incurred in 1928, according to the writ.

Radicals Break French Cabinet

Paris, Nov. 6 (AP).—The radical members of the cabinet withdrew from office today, wrecking the government of Premier Gaston Doumergue.

Former Premier Edouard Herriot, minister without portfolio under Doumergue, and head of the radical socialists had been in opposition to many ideas of the premier.

The premier is understood to be prepared to give President Lebrun the collective resignation of the whole ministry which had been in power since the riot of last February.

Health Officer Hurt in Crash

John Deatriek, Adams county health officer, sustained a bruise on the side of his head when the automobile he was driving was forced off the road, shortly after two o'clock this afternoon.

Deatriek was traveling above Brysonia and was rounding a curve when an unknown motorist, according to Deatriek, forced him off the road. The car rolled over on its side and was damaged.

Woman Flier Dies in Crash

Reading, Nov. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Marian Henninger Reichert, 32, wife of George D. Reichert, a Reading bank official, was fatally injured early Monday night when an airplane in which she was practicing solo flying hit a hill on the city of Reading's watershed at Lake Ontelaunee, eight miles north of here. She died, ten minutes after admission to a hospital, of a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Taking lessons frequently in the past half-year, Mrs. Reichert, a member of a family prominent in business and social circles, had made a number of flights alone, and was preparing for her pilot's license test.

The cause of the accident was not definitely learned. The crash occurred only a short distance from the Society of Friends' meeting house, relocated recently.

Mrs. Reichert had reached an altitude of 3,000 feet, and started to descend. She had apparently shut off the motor, in practice, and may have forgotten to start the engine until she was too close to the earth to regain control and avoid the hill in the gathering darkness. The plane was only partially wrecked.

CITROEN LIKELY TO LOSE CONTROL OF AUTO FIRM

Paris, Nov. 6 (AP).—Andre Citroen, "the Henry Ford of France," was reported Monday as likely to be forced out of the factory he founded after the war by a creditors' reorganization.

The creditors, headed by the Michelin Tire company and backed by the government, have stepped in after months of financial difficulties.

Citroen equipped his plants with American mass production machinery, which is said to be valueless for gun-making, while other important French automobile factories kept their old machinery capable of being used in case of war emergency. The government was said in financial quarters to be anxious to change the plant's methods during the present reorganization.

Chinese Face Deportation After 'Slave Trade' Arrests

New York, Nov. 6 (AP).—Their dreams of golden opportunities in this country shattered, 17 Chinese half starved and ill from months of privation, Monday night waited at Ellis Island for deportation.

The 17, all who remain of a group of 60 that left China months ago in the hold of a steamship, were found by federal agents in a cellar prison in Keansburg, New Jersey, where they had been kept while their captors tried to sell them to other Chinese.

FIRST REPORTS FOR DEMOCRATS

Two Towns in Massachusetts File Returns; Violence in Missouri Reported.

(By the A. P.)

Democratic gains in two normally republican Massachusetts towns marked early returns from today's "off-year" election test of the New Deal.

Fair and moderate weather in most of the country—except in New England and other parts of the east where rain fell—brought reports of heavy voting which led to predictions of a record poll.

Fresh violence in Missouri following last night's fatal shootings in Pennsylvania led to new efforts to maintain order and prevent bloodshed from growing out of the political tension.

Democratic headquarters claimed a "sweep" when New Ashford, Massachusetts, the first town to report complete gains showed democratic gains over past years.

A democratic gain also was recorded in the tabulation of 39 votes from Mount Washington, Massachusetts, the second town in that state to report.

President Roosevelt motored through a downpour to cast his ballot at Hyde Park, New York.

The first serious violence occurred today in the vicinity of Holland, Missouri, where two men were shot and killed and several others wounded.

National guardsmen were ordered to "observe" New Mexico's balloting and 100 specially appointed deputy sheriffs were directed to maintain order in Little Delaware.

First returns west of the Mississippi came from Springfield, Missouri, which reported Harry S. Truman, democratic candidate, had received 78 votes to 65 for Senator Roscoe C. Patterson, the republican incumbent.

Alice Longworth To Sell Residence

Washington, Nov. 6.—A "for sale" sign appeared Monday on the mansion of Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt and widow of Speaker Nicholas Longworth.

Real estate agents entrusted with the task of selling the house said Mrs. Longworth had left no definite instructions, not even specifying a price. She merely told them she wanted to sell.

The residence, a five-story white stone mansion in one of the most exclusive sections of Washington's Massachusetts avenue, has been famous as a political salon.

NEGRO MEETS DEATH IN FIGHT OVER POLITICS

Philadelphia, Nov. 6 (AP).—Joseph Davenport, negro, was arrested Monday after William Brooks, 35, negro, was shot to death in what police described as a quarrel over politics.

The argument started on a South Philadelphia street, and about fifty persons gathered as the two men exchanged blows.

After the fight stopped, police said, Davenport went to his home and returned several minutes later. Brooks was sitting on a doorstep when the bullet was fired into his head.

Kingfish Shakes Students' Faith In Santa as He Calls in I. O. U.'s

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 6 (AP).—Louisiana state university students know now that there is no Santa Claus on the campus.

Their tinseled hopes were blasted when Senator Huey P. Long passed the word that something like 500 of the students would have to pay back money he passed out to them in his wealth-distribution process to pay their way on the "Kingfish" football specials with him to the Vanderbilt-Louisiana state football game in Nashville.

Turning his pockets inside out, Long was nearly mobbed when he distributed crisp bills at $7 a head to students fidgeting to make the trip. Each signed a laundry slip and the deal was made with Long holding the bag of I. O. U.'s.

Hundreds of students and many who were not students besieged the Kingfish when it was noised about Baton Rouge that he was "giving away money."

parently deserted house. Guarding them was MacDonald Hart, Trinidad negro, and five police dogs. Hart capitulated at the sight of a submachine gun and the dogs at the odor of hamburger.

After months of starvation on a menu consisting of nothing but rice the Chinese were fed at Ellis Island while the agents investigated a fantastic story of a virtual slave trade existing between agents of this country and those in China.

Eighteen Sold To Friends

Of the 60 who left China, 35 reached the United States, the agents were told. Eighteen of these had been sold to friends and relatives for sums ranging from $1,000 to $1,500. The others remained at Keansburg while smugglers sought someone to buy them.

The purchase meant they would be forced to labor in a laundry for 200 cents a day until the sum their master paid was worked out. They told the agents they could not flee because the master would disclose their illegal entry to this country to immigration authorities.

Federal agents linked the smuggled Chinese with a narcotic smuggling gang.

U. S. PROBER IS IN STATE

Spartanburg, S. C., Nov. 6 (AP).—U. S. Senator James H. Byrnes, chairman of the senate campaign expenditures investigating committee, disclosed today he had authorized employment of 150 men to visit the polls in Pennsylvania to secure evidence as to expenditures and to watch for violations of election laws.

Senator Byrnes termed the killing of three persons during a democratic parade at the Pennsylvania mining town at Kelayres, an "outrage."

He said he had been informed a number of democratic leaders were arrested Monday and their bonds set "at several thousand dollars in the hope that such a bond could not be raised, the idea being to keep them in jail today."

Luther K. Brice, Spartanburg attorney, is now in Pennsylvania as special investigator for the senate committee, Byrnes said.

"Due to the large expenditures used in the primary and the charges of similar large expenditures being used in today's election I plan to hold hearings in that state after the election or after the candidates have filed their expense statements, which, under the law, must be filed in 30 days," Byrnes said.

Local People at Carriers' Banquet

Between 75 and 100 rural mail carriers and their wives attended the annual banquet of the Adams County Rural Carriers' association in the Red Men's hall in East Berlin Saturday evening. W. A. Sinner, East Berlin, president of the association, presided.

The speakers included Congressman Harry L. Haines, Mr. Hollinger, Greencastle, president of the state organization; Max Lightner, Duncannon, secretary of the state association, and Mr. and Mrs. McDevitt, Washington, D. C., editors of a rural carriers' publication. No business was transacted.

Gettysburgians who attended included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Helfert, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfeiffer, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weikert, David Tawney, Norman Storrick and Arthur Warman.

ENLARGE PINE GROVE RESERVOIR

Pine Grove, Pa., Nov. 6.—About 30 people have been called to work on a local LWD project calling for the enlargement of the Pine Grove reservoir. This work is to be pushed to completion and will increase the capacity of the borough's water supply four-fold.

MACHINE GUNS SWEEP PARADE IN HAZLETON

Three Killed and Many Wounded as Shots Break Up Procession.

FIVE WOMEN ARE INJURED

Hazleton, Nov. 6 (AP).—Within a few yards of the corner where three men were killed by a cross-fire from shot guns and rifles, citizens of Kelayres voted today in another election, with the results of last year's balloting still in controversy.

Fears of further violence disappeared just before dawn as state police escorted the families of Joseph Bruno, a republican leader of Tamaqua, 14 miles from the small mining town where the three men were killed and 15 others wounded in the leaden-hail spat from the darkened windows into a democratic parade last night.

Three persons were shot to death and nineteen others, including five women, were wounded Monday night when machine-gun fire swept a democratic political parade at Kelayres, a mining village five miles south of here.

The crowd surged toward a brick residence from which marchers said the fire was directed. State police battled to keep them from dynamiting the house.

Police reinforcements were sped to the scene from several points in answer to threats of renewed violence with return of many of the paraders, who had helped to take the wounded and dead to hospitals and homes.

The riot climaxed a year of factional friction in the little town's politics.

The democrats were swinging down Kelayres' main street, banners waving and red fire flaring.

Cross Fire Takes Paraders—Suddenly shots blazed out from both sides of the street, raking the marchers with a deadly cross fire.

A score or more of the paraders dropped in their tracks, and in a moment all was confusion.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Welding, an aged pair, showed newspaper men where a bullet crashed the panel of the front door of their home and went out through the living and dining room doors and lodged in the kitchen door.

Homes of Joseph Bruno, republican leader of the township, and his nephew, Paul, are at the street intersection where the marchers fell.

George Steranko, upon hearing the volley, ran from his home and as he sighted John Golosky, of McAdoo, picked him up and took him to the Hazleton hospital, where he died on the operating table.

State Cops Hold Crowd—At 11:30 o'clock Monday night reports from McAdoo, a mile east of the scene of the shooting, stated that three state troopers were holding back the milling crowd and cries of reprisals were heard, but the troopers fought desperately to keep the ambushed faction from reaching the Bruno home.

Physicians at McAdoo report that numerous minor wounds were dressed at their offices and one of these victims, Miss Alice McBride, said that it was her impression that it was machine-gun fire, as the charges peppered so fast. Miss McBride, her arm riddled with bullets, was taken to the office of Dr. John J. Dailey and later was taken to her home.

As the hours passed, the crowd began to show a high pitch of unrest as no arrests had been made and a demand to go and get the perpetrators was becoming louder in the crowd.

dents $630; Muhlenberg, 50 students, $750 and Ursinus, 53 students, $795.

The relief student will be permitted to earn as much as $20 a month in work of one sort or another under the direction of the college, but the allotment of funds to each college will be on the basis of $15 a month for each of the full-time students included in the 12 per cent quota. The selection of students to receive aid is to be from among those who without this help would be unable to attend or remain in college.

275 Eligible at Princeton

Why neither Yale nor Harvard were on the list of government-aided universities was not cleared up by relief administration officials last night. They said that each state relief administration was supposed to get in contact with the deans of the universities in the state and to be responsible for the list sent to Washington.

It was suggested that Yale and Harvard may either have failed to record need for federal aid or to have delayed application. In the latter case they may be on a later relief list. Princeton is on today's list with a total of 275 students eligible for relief. Although Yale university is not on the list, the Yale university divinity school is on for 23 students. Also on the list are institutions near Harvard, such as Massachusetts institute of technology with 240 students eligible, Radcliffe with 104, Boston college with 609 and Boston college with 198.

U. of C. Is Largest

The University of California has the record number for the whole country, with 1898 eligible, while the University of Southern California has 455. The University of Wisconsin has 884 eligible. The University of Minnesota has 1158.

"Each college president is held responsible for the program in his institution. Students will be employed in socially desirable work on and off the campus. On the campus they will be engaged in research, clerical, office, library, museum and laboratory work, while off the campus activities include community education, health and welfare projects." It was announced.

The largest portion of college relief will go to New York

MARIAN GORDON

by JEANNE BOWMAN

SYNOPSIS: McSwain, the contractor, holds an apparently raised check over Casad's head, to force Lon to pass inferior material used in the high school building on which Lon is acting as McSwain's foreman. Marian Casad tells her friend, the district attorney, the story of McSwain's crookedness, and learns that the only man who can furnish the evidence necessary is Max Hamlin. But where is Max Hamlin?

Chapter 40

MISUNDERSTOOD AGAIN

Marian remembered as they neared home that Hamlin had mentioned having a lodge at a place which she associated with summer resorts, and then she remembered he had given Lon his address on a card. She would ask Lon for the address; but what excuse would she have for that? Lon would naturally want to know why she was interested in Hamlin. She knew she wouldn't have enjoyed having Lon ask her for Silver's address, if they hadn't chanced to meet again. Under the circumstances she'd have to risk his displeasure.

She did, and found she hadn't minimized it. Lon came in from work, his brow creased with a worried frown. He looked at the shrubs with apathetic interest, barely touched his dinner, then went out to stand on the hill and look down on the subdivision he had started so bravely months before.

Marian finished her housework and joined him.

"Looks like a cemetery," he said moodily, "those stakes are like so many headstones."

"I'm sorry, Lon," she touched his sleeve with her hand. "I do understand how you feel."

He patted her hand and continued staring down hill, where the cool autumn wind was whirling dead leaves into yellow piles.

Marian watched him and her determination to do something to change this queer route their life had taken awakened anew. "Lon," she said, "do you remember Max Hamlin's giving you his address, that last evening we were with him?"

Lon gave her a quick, suspicious look. "I do, why?"

"I was trying to think of the place today. A summer resort, wasn't it?"

"Not that I know of."

"You still have the card, haven't you?"

"No, I threw it away."

"Lon," she couldn't help the hurt cry, "why did you do that?"

"Because," he said evenly, "I thought the time would come when you'd want to know where he lived."

He turned and started walking to the house, leaving Marian looking after him.

Marian watched Lon, a queer baffled feeling dulling the hurt she might have felt. Mechanically she walked to the other side of the hilltop, sat down on the dry grass and looked out over the valley.

A dreary place on this autumn evening, overcast sky above, yellowing tree smudged with twilight below. Diabolo had retired beneath a blanket of clouds, only the pinnacle with its shining eye above, "like an old woman pulling the quilts around her chin," thought Marian.

How to locate Hamlin. Her thoughts wandered for a few moments, resting on the events of the day, the previous week, back on the problem before her.

"I'm a fine newspaper woman," she thought suddenly, "I know there's a pile of old newspapers in the garage. The summer ones will have lists of resorts. I'm sure if I once read the name I'll remember."

She waited until Lon had left the following morning, then burrowed into the yellowed sheets, chose a Sunday newspaper and opened it to the page carrying display advertisements of resorts. Almost instantly her eyes caught one section topped by the words "Russian River Resorts." That was it. Russian River.

She waited until Lon had left the following morning, then burrowed into the yellowed sheets, chose a Sunday newspaper and opened it to the page carrying display advertisements of resorts. Almost instantly her eyes caught one section topped by the words "Russian River Resorts." That was it. Russian River.

"John King said to call on him. I know he'll be able to locate Hamlin with this lead."

Marian dispatched a note to King, when Waki left that evening, and then began the nerve-racking wait for an answer.

Lon grew more restless. Marian would awaken in the middle of the night to find him gone. She would listen, stiff with apprehension, then hear matches striking, hear the roar of the fire in the fireplace, or she would hear dry leaves crunching as he paced up and down outside.

If only he could tell her what was worrying him. But he couldn't. One night when a bitterly cold wind was presaging the coming of a cold spell she heard him pacing up and down outside. She arose, built a fire in the hearth, heated milk for a warm drink, then called him in.

He responded to her request that he sit down before the fire and drink the hot milk, allowed her to sit beside him. But he said nothing, just stared into the fire.

"Lon," she began, at length, "if you don't tell me what is worrying you, I'm . . . I'm going to do something desperate."

"What do you do when you're desperate?" he asked her, and watched intently as she answered.

"Things," she replied, "Lon, why don't you quit McSwain? Conditions are so much better and you can find work elsewhere, and even if you can't we've a nice bit of money behind us now. I'll be so economical you won't know me. Lon, won't you?"

"Quit McSwain?" he repeated, and then he gave a short, bitter laugh.

A little later he asked her to go back to bed, promised he would keep the hearth fire burning, even went out and brought in a few logs to convince her. She went to bed but she couldn't sleep. She lay listening to the whisper of the wind under the tiling of the roof, the occasional rush of rain on the window pane, and the rare sound of someone moving in the next room.

At dawn she went in to find Lon on the divan asleep, the fire burned to grey ashes. She covered him with an Indian blanket, then built up the fire and sat down to enjoy the warmth, and as she sat there she studied her husband's face as if he were a stranger.

The man lying there was a stranger, compared with the one she had married. The pleasant lines of an assured future had been erased to give place to ones of care. The soft boyish line of the chin was gone and the face, lean now since his brief illness, showed a surprisingly strong chin.

Lon was certainly being disciplined. Would he learn whatever lesson there was to be learned?

Lon makes a curious request, tomorrow.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY

100 ATTEND COUNTY 4-H ROUNDUP SATURDAY

Carlisle—More than a hundred members, parents and friends attended the annual roundup of the Cumberland county 4-H home economics club held in the Carlisle Y. M. C. A. rooms on Saturday.

A fashion show, displaying school clothes made by the girls of the various clubs, was a feature of the program, supervised by Miss Ada F. Beegle, home economics instructor for the county.

ROAD DETOUR IS NOW REMOVED

Carlisle—The Carlisle-Harrisburg pike, closed for the past several weeks due to improvements being made on the highway, has been opened from Carlisle to Hagerstown, state highway officials at Carlisle announced. The detour has just been removed.

The opening of the road followed the completion of the three-lane road from Middlesex to New Kingston. Work is rapidly progressing on the other end of the pike, where a three-lane road is being laid from Sporting Hill to Camp Hill at the present time.

TWO HURT AS CARS COLLIDE

Mechanicsburg—Two persons were slightly injured and two cars badly damaged in a collision early Sunday in the Trindle road one mile west of Mechanicsburg.

Mrs. W. J. Fetter, of Carlisle, and Mrs. Clara Shaw, of Wilmington, Delaware, both were treated at the office of a Carlisle physician for bruises. The drivers of the cars were Donald C. Dickerson, of Dayton, Ohio, and W. J. Fetter, of Carlisle.

Labor Trend Shows England Tired of Tories, Says Lansbury

London, Nov. 6. — George Lansbury, labor leader, Friday night said the party's sweeping gains in Thursday's nationwide municipal elections "demonstrates that the nation is sick of Tory rule, both national and local."

In an address at Becontree he predicted that "the events of the past two days will prove only a forerunner of a tremendous victory for labor."

Other labor spokesmen, while reluctant to comment on the national significance of the elections, were openly exultant at what they termed the "amazing" victories in the London area and the "striking gains registered in the provinces."

652 Council Seats Gained
In the metropolitan area and the 100 largest provincial towns, in which complete returns had been received last night, labor's net gain was 652 council seats.

Party chiefs asserted the results showed Great Britain that labor had shaken off the effects of the defeat it suffered in 1931.

Earlier Lansbury said the outcome of the voting proved "municipal socialism is getting a sure and firm hold on the people, who are not to be frightened by wild stories about waste and extravagance when the money in fact is being spent on beneficial social service."

Call Money Well Spent
While labor leaders in general refused to commit themselves on the national political significance of the municipal balloting, political observers commented on labor's growing strength. They expressed the belief it might indicate possible trends in the next general elections.

National issues were not emphasized in the campaigns preceding Thursday's voting. Most of the battles were fought out along local lines. An important issue with the opposition was alleged extravagance of municipal labor administrations, the latter countering with the assertion the money was well spent.

Heartened by the results, the executive of the London labor party announced it was immediately reviving and expanding the activities of its so-called municipal consultative committee. This body will assist in pushing public welfare projects on the labor program.

Control Eleven Boroughs
London voters accounted for 457 of the gains recorded with the remaining 195 in provincial cities.

Final London figures showed labor captured control of eleven boroughs and retained control of four it already held, thus holding fifteen of the twenty-eight comprising the metropolitan area.

This was especially heartening to labor leaders inasmuch as it followed sweeping victories last March which gave them control of the London county council.

Sounds So Shri! It's Unheard Science's New Navigation Aid

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP) — A sound so shrill that it cannot be heard, which measures the depth of shallow water almost as accurately as a foot rule, is science's newest aid to sailors and navigators, announced by the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

The new device, called the "shoal fathometer," is expected to be an important aid to ships navigating in shoal water and in making charts of the bottom in shallow-water areas. It is an adaptation and improvement of the deep-water fathometer used by the coast survey in charting coastal waters and by ships generally for about nine years.

Like Deep-Water Type
The shoal fathometer, like the deep-water type measures depth by measuring the time taken for a sound to travel from a ship's keel to the sea bottom and to echo back to the ship again.

The new device, however, is much more accurate and sensitive than the old, for it measures almost unbelievably brief time intervals, as short as a few thousandths of a second, with an accuracy of four one-hundred-thousandths of a second.

Sound travels 4,800 feet per second in sea water. Therefore, to measure a depth of 12 feet under a vessel's keel the sound would have to travel only a total of 24 feet—from ship to bottom and back—and the time elapsed would be only five one-thousandths of a second.

The shoal fathometer measures this short time accurately and translates it into a flashing point of light on a dial, which shows the navigator at once how much water he has under his keel within 1 inch of perfect accuracy.

Gives Profile Picture
It also works so fast that the depth of water can be measured every 10 inches along the bottom, giving a practically continuous picture of the profile of the sea bottom, with immediate warning of changes in depth.

The Coast survey predicts as little as 2 feet in depth may be measured with the device, although the shallowest water so far sounded with it is 9 feet. It supersedes the time-honored practice of "heaving the lead" to measure depth, a slow and cumbersome method in use since earliest times.

The sound that does the measuring in the shoal fathometer is produced electrically with a frequency so great that the human ear cannot catch it. It is translated onto the dial of the instrument by a neon tube flash that makes the depth as easy to read from minute to minute as the time on a clock face.

EGGS MESS UP U. OF C. STRIKE

Anti-Fascist Meeting Is Broken by Barrage; Faculty Is Spattered.

Berkeley, Cal., Nov. 6 (AP)—Eggs and tomatoes spattered students and faculty members alike here Monday when used as ammunition to disrupt a meeting of University of California students agitating for a strike against "the rising tide of fascism and reaction."

Scuffling developed in the crowd of more than 2,000 students, most of whom apparently were present out of curiosity. The crowd assembled just outside the campus because the meeting was not permitted within the university grounds. One student was cut in the eye.

The projected strike fizzled when only a few students left their classes. The meeting ended with everybody singing "Hail, California," the university hymn.

Barrage Accurate
Accuracy featured the egg-and-tomato barrage. One speaker was silenced when a somewhat mature egg went into his megaphone.

A girl speaker, Ruth Moore, was splashed by missiles that struck over her head. She retired weeping. An American flag hoisted on the urn was used as a rostrum likewise was splattered.

Besides being directed against "fascism and reaction," the meeting was called as a protest against the suspension of five students on radicalism charges at the University of California at Los Angeles recently.

Action Denounced
Piacards denouncing the U. C. L. A. action and "Fascism" on the Berkeley campus were torn from protestors' hands and destroyed by men identified by onlookers as athletes. This same group formed the nucleus of the egg-and-vegetable artillery.

A quantity of pies appeared as ammunition, but apparently were consumed by the students instead of being thrown. One speaker was spanked by a youth identified as a football player before he could mount the urn.

Luther A. Nichols, comptroller of the university, was accidentally splashed by egg yolk, as were two or three other faculty members. Men speakers at the demonstration were liberally daubed.

Stuart McClure, secretary of the sophomores, attempted to make a plea to "go back to our classrooms" and also was egged.

BULLETS DRILL FOR DICKINSON

Coaches Bream and Griffiths Work Hard With Reserve Material.

Excusing the players who were in the greater part of the Lehigh game last Saturday, Coaches Bream and Griffiths, with the remainder of their squad, began seriously Monday night the defense of the Eastern Pennsylvania conference football crown and the preparation for the biennial Dickinson invasion. The game to be played here Saturday will be the feature attraction on Gettysburg's annual Dads' day program.

The Gettysburg coaches were pleased with the improvement of their team in the Lehigh game over the form displayed a week before. However, they feel a dearth of capable reserve material. To remedy this condition, those ailing for some weeks and others of promise were drilled hard Monday night in the present Bullet plays. The coaches believe that there is much latent ability among the reserves if and when they decide to demonstrate.

The present regulars will need help if the Bullets are to dispose of the three remaining conference teams on their schedule.

One Minor Injury

Only one injury, and that a minor one, was sustained in the Engineer game. Fish, who with Tony Kozma flashed the finest end-play last Saturday seen here in years, is nursing a badly split lip that will not keep him out of the Dickinson fray. Bob Sassaman, who punted so well against the Lehigh team, and Cico came through the game without further injury. Nowicki and McGinnis will both be available for duty Saturday.

Believing that this is their year, Dickinson college authorities Monday ordered 500 student tickets and a large block of seats in the north stands. They are expecting the largest following of fans that has accompanied a Red Devil team here in years.

an overtone that for the most part drowned out the speakers, although the main body of the students apparently was neutral. The hooting and barrage work were principally the work of a group of about fifty men.

Americans Say They Were Jailed By Nazis, Searched and Stripped

Munich, Nov. 6 (AP)—Two young Americans have discovered to their sorrow that it's courting trouble to carry cameras too near anything in Germany resembling military maneuvers.

The two—Helen Lyster, of New Rochelle, New York, and G. Griffith Johnson, Jr., of Washington, D. C.,—reported to the United States consul they were arrested October 25 while watching storm troops parade here, searched, stripped and held for seven hours on suspicion of espionage.

There was no complaint to the consul, however, that they were subjected to illtreatment, both agreeing they were "treated with reasonable courtesy."

Secret police suspected them of being spies because Miss Lyster's camera was hanging from her arm when they strolled across an air field here where storm troops were marching, the two said. They said they failed to notice the Verboten signs.

The camera had not been used, but the German secret police took no chances. They developed the film in it.

The young Americans reported they were subjected to thorough search, Miss Lyster by a woman police official, and questioned at intervals by one secret police officer after another, operating in relays.

Miss Lyster and Johnson said they repeatedly asked to be permitted to communicate with the United States consul or an attorney, but were told "You are being held for espionage."

They were later released without apologies and without charges against them, after being given prison fare of black bread.

Miss Lyster's camera was returned to her after the police developed the film and found it had not been exposed.

They did not report the matter to the United States consul until Thursday.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Morton J. Lyster, whose daughter, Helen, was imprisoned several hours by the secret police of Munich, Germany, said Friday night:

"Maybe that will cure her of this art bug she's got in her head. I should think she had enough of Germany by now."

Helen, an only child, blonde and 21, entered the University of Munich this fall to study painting, her father said.

THIS CHANGE Helps Children

Intestinal irritation in many growing girls and boys can be traced to one mistake.

Are you making this mistake with your children? The "liquid test" will tell.

"What is this 'liquid test' they talk about?" ask mothers. Just this: a simple way of finding out if any boy or girl with irregular or insufficient bowel movements is in need of relief, or is getting the wrong treatment.

Doctors urge a liquid laxative for children. The child who has been convalescing in a hospital will often come out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch. Hospitals give children a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, suitable strength, and in suitable amount.

The Proper Treatment
Give that sluggish child a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not upset them.

Just give any headachy, bilious child a little of this gentle laxative when constipated, and a little less if dose is repeated until the bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly without need of help.

How to Begin

Stop all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults.

It is not wise to give laxatives of adult strength to a child, just because you give them less frequently or in less amounts.

So, get a bottle of California Syrup of Figs from your druggist, and start tonight, if your child is constipated, giving a good, cleansing dose. Repeat if necessary, giving a little less each time. That's the secret of this treatment—gradually reduced dosage.

When you change to California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you'll risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer and more satisfactory result, too.

THE "LIQUID TEST"

This is the way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:

First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.

An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

day scholars.
We acknowledge the compliment of a serenade by the "Perseverance Band" of Lebanon, Pa., which accompanied the 93d Pa. Regiment on excursion on Thursday. It is one of the best bands in the state and the music was much enjoyed by our citizens.

Mr. Jacob Kitzmiller, Freedom township, has his new house ready for the roof to replace the one burnt some time ago.

There were full audiences in the Presbyterian church of this place on Sunday on the occasion of its re-opening. Rev. Dr. Chambers, of Harrisburg, preached in the morning, and Rev. A. Russell Stevenson, of Easton, in the evening.

Marriages: Fischer—Picking, Oct.

Republican Meetings: Gettysburg, Notwithstanding the rain the meeting in Gettysburg on Thursday night was a large one. The court house was crowded. The College
Blaine and Logan Club and Drum Corps paraded some of the streets, discharging Roman candles and other fire works, arousing much enthusiasm. The meeting was organized by J. L. Hill, Jr., when S.
Mc. Swope, Esq., introduced Mr.
Seitz, the republican nominee for congress, who made a creditable address of about half an hour. J.
M. Krauth, Esq., introduced Clinton Lloyd, Esq., of Williamsport, who spoke for an hour and a half with great ability, being frequently and warmly applauded. The officers were: President, Hon. David Willis; Vice Presidents—Geo. H. Swope,
John Majors, Hon. S. R. Russell,
Wm. Steinour, Wm. H. Lott, Wm.
C. Stallsmith, Jacob G. McIlhenny,
Dr. Chas. Horner, Theodore McAllister, G. Jacob Hankey, Robert thews, Peter Culp, Samuel Steinour.

At Bendersville there was the largest gathering for many years.
The Blaine and Logan club from Pine Grove Furnace was present in bright uniforms and torches, accompanied by a band. The Cashtown band and Gettysburg drum corps were also present. During the day a fine pole had been erected in the center square from which floated the stars and stripes, many of the residences being illuminated.
The meeting was so large that it had to be held in the open air. The speaking took place in front of the residence of Mr. John Morrison, which was handsomely illuminated.
Effective speeches were made by Senator Macfarland, of Philadelphia; J. A. Kitzmiller, J. M. Krauth and D. A. Buehler. The officers of the meeting were:
President—Samuel Meals, Esq.
Vice Presidents—Jacob Routson,
S. E. Wampler, Wm. Becker, C. S.

TRIBUTE

To honor him at trifling cost
On parchment was his name embossed,
And those who to the dinner came
Added their tributes to his fame,
But all they said who looked behind
The record of his working days
Was, he was honest, brave and kind,
And helpful in so many ways.

One spoke of courage he had shown,
Another made his friendship known
By telling of a thoughtful deed,
That served a brother's hour of need.

But unto no one it occurred
That any tribute should be paid
By flowery phrase or flattering word
Unto the money he had made.
Tributes are never paid to gold
However much a man may hold.
No parchment is engrossed to state
The wealth that men accumulate,
But after years of service true Friends gladly honor us if we Have done the little all can do
And been the help that all can be.

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—
OURSELVES

THE most mysterious secret in the world—so far as we are concerned—is that which we alone conceal within ourselves.

Like the tree, which gives the outward form of its life to the most casual passer-by, and which contributes beauty and shade, each of us suggests the substance of our being and the personality that we own, in a shadowy manner—but rarely does anyone get to know the secret spring which so often quenches the thirst of our heart.

That strange elusive something—deep, deep within our being, which we often experience as a silent voice, admonishing, entreating, and sometimes applauding, we dare not reveal—because of its personal sacredness.

God is forever creeping into the warm corners of people's hearts, and those hearts are often wounded to the quick by unthinkingly spoken words that leave scars behind. And so God is hurt there, too.

We may easily form judgments of a person, but we can never adequately appraise his unrevealed worth, or accurately weigh the gold within his motives. None of us is sufficiently worthy to pass honest judgment upon another.

The human side of what we are is the thing we want most that should be loved and known. We want our blunderings and stumblings to be forgotten and overlooked as soon as they are created. We want this great self of ours to get a little credit now and then—not the thing of some note, perhaps, which may have attracted attention, such as a turned phrase, a song, a poem or some work of art.

It has been said that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing," but there is nothing dangerous about a little understanding.

The more we try to explain ourselves, the more people get confused about us. It's a silly and useless procedure.

Settlement of Naval Issues Forecast by Colonel House

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 6 (AP)— Confidence in an ultimate extension of naval limitations agreements was expressed Sunday by Col. Edward M. House, foreign affairs authority and intimate of Woodrow Wilson, after a visit with President Roosevelt.

The 76-year-old adviser declined with a twinkle in his eyes even to intimate what he and Mr. Roosevelt chatted about during the Sunday dinner and early afternoon visit.

He spoke sparingly on his own views at the station as he departed for New York with Mrs. House, but responses to questions did reveal a conviction that the troubled London naval parley would reach an understanding on naval limitations and that business was better.

Roosevelt Has "Lot of Views"
"Do you think bankers and business men are cooperating with the recovery program?" he was asked.
"Yes," he replied. "Of course, they will if they have any sense, and there are very definite evidences that they are, particularly in industry. The president knows that."

Tetrazzini to Press Charges Of Extortion Against Husband

Rome, Nov. 6 (AP)—Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, operatic star, made known Sunday night that she would press for criminal punishment of her young husband. For many months he has been trying to place her financial affairs in the hands of a trustee.

She instructed her counsel to proceed in penal court Monday with charges of attempted extortion against Pietro Vernati, twenty-five years her junior, to whom she was married in 1926.

Attorneys for the diva claimed to have evidence that Vernati offered to withdraw his action for appointment of a trustee if the singer would pay him 100,000 lire (about $8,700).

The criminal action is a counter-stroke against Vernati's suit, which was brought in 1932 on the grounds that the now 63-year-old operatic star was squandering her fortune, said to have amounted once to $5,000,000. Final decision in that case still is pending. World-wide attention has been drawn to the litigation owing to Mme. Tetrazzini's prominence and the charges brought by her husband. She has been separated from him since 1928.

He asserted she was the victim of hallucinations and said that under the spell of these she "handed out money right and left." Their home, his attorneys declared, became a meeting place for spiritualists, and "mysterious rites" held there "inevitably wound up in the clinking of champagne cups."

She confirmed her interest in spiritualism, but scoffed at the charges of Vernati. Her generosity, she said, was prompted by artistic temperament.
To his charges that she was squandering money she replied that perhaps he thought she was richer than she really was when they were married. She still has to rely partly on her work for a living, she claimed.

Vernati's lawyers claimed that since the couple have been separated Madame Tetrazzini has disposed of a home worth 2,000,000 lire ($174,000), for a fourth of its value, pawned jewels worth 1,500,000 for a mere 100,000 lire, and run through a bank account of 1,300,000 lire.
The star won an important point after Vernati's case had strung out until December, 1933, when the court decided that she could retain control of her property providing she gave satisfactory testimony as to her ability to do so within one month.
She offered the testimony within the time prescribed. The court's final decision is expected next month.
Vernati was bound over on her

100,000 Japanese Acclaim Babe And His Fellow Ball Players

Tokyo, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Babe big bulk Friday blotted out such unimportant things as international squabble over oil and navies.

To the cheers of more than 100-000 rabid baseball fans jamming both sides of the Ginza, the "Broadway" of Tokyo, George Herman Ruth and his fellow-American league barnstormers entered Japan's capital in royal style.

With him were Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, and other baseball notables, but the home-run king was the big show.

He grinned delightedly as he rode slowly through the narrow lane police reserves struggled to keep open. He shook scores of hands.

Everywhere the Stars and Stripes and Japan's Rising Sun were displayed together. Confetti and streamers floated down from buildings lining the thoroughfare, and traffic halted until the Americans reached their hotel.

The American big leaguers will play four games at Tokyo, November 4, 5, 10 and 11, and all reserve seats in the huge Meiji Shrine park, which seats 60,000, were sold out three weeks in advance, with capacity crowds assured each day.

counter-charge in June of this year and trial was set for today.

The total gate should just about equal that of the last seven-game World Series.

Even larger crowds will be present when the Americans play in Osaka, whose Kosen Stadium holds 80,000. Other large Japanese cities are expected to be equally enthusiastic.

The chief problem was opposition for the visitors, since Japan has no professional teams.

The Tokyo club, an organization of former university players, will face them in the first game, an all-star Japanese nine in the second and third, and the fourth game will be played between mixed Japanese and American outfits.

Challenges Vote Of Mrs. Anna Dall

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—The right of Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, the president's daughter, to cast an absentee ballot in the New York state election, was challenged Monday on the ground that she had established legal residence in Nevada last summer to obtain a divorce from Curtis B. Dall.

Miss Natalie Couch, republican candidate for representative-at-large, telegraphed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt that she would contest acceptance of Mrs. Dall's ballot if it is offered today.

Mrs. Roosevelt's campaigning in behalf of Miss Couch's democratic opponent, Mrs. Caroline O'Day, brought criticism of the First Lady by republican and independent leaders, one of whom termed it "eminently unfair."

Mrs. Dall, who applied for an absentee ballot in Dutchess county, was not mentioned by name in Miss Couch's telegram to Mrs. Roosevelt, but was referred to as "a member of your household."

The absentee ballot had not been returned to Dutchess county election officials late Monday night, and the possibility of Miss Couch exercising her threatened challenge seemed remote.

TO MOVE CIRCUS "FAT LADY" HOME IN BAGGAGE CAR

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 6 (AP)—Ruth Pontico, 600-pound circus "fat lady," is going home to Florida in a railroad baggage car.

Her husband, Joe, arrived here Monday and arranged for her removal from a hospital where she has been treated for typhoid fever.

Aboard the baggage car, attached to a Frisco train leaving at midnight, were her husband and Miss Margaret Moore, a nurse. They will alternate in attending the patient, whose home is in Sarasota, Florida. Physicians estimated she has lost a hundred pounds but still weighs 600 pounds.

Kept Aloft by Locked Gear, Pilot Lands Ship After Hour

Newark, N. J., Nov. 6 (AP)—The expert hand of Hi Little, veteran pilot, at the controls of a giant transport airplane, aloft with its retractable landing gear disabled, Sunday averted a crack-up that might have brought injury and possibly death to seven passengers and a crew of three.

With the gear locked midway between its normal landing and flying positions and with airport, fire and police officials looking on and fearing a fatal crash, Little brought the big ship to earth at Newark airport without so much as an unusual bump.

The craft, a United Airlines ship, took off from the airport at 12 noon bound for Chicago and carrying seven passengers and a crew of Little, Arthur Lybarger, of Chicago, co-pilot, and Agnes Pugh, stewardess.

When he reached an altitude of 1,000 feet, Little pulled the lever operating the landing gear, but found the mechanism was faulty, leaving the ship's wheels only half-way up from their landing position.

Then began an hour of intense excitement, with Little circling over the field and trying to dislodge the locked gear. He was unable to succeed and in radio conversation with his company decided to attempt a landing. Two ambulances, three fire trucks and radio police cars equipped with fire-fighting apparatus were summoned and the exact spot of the landing was arranged.

Little swooped downward at the appointed time and cut off his motors the moment the ship touched the ground. The ambulances, fire trucks and police cars raced alongside the plane for a distance of 300 feet, where the plane halted without damage.

All the passengers were grinning when they alighted. They slapped Little and the back and praised him highly for his feat. Among them was Dr. Arnold, Kegell, former Chicago health commissioner, who performed an operation Sunday morning at St. Luke's hospital, New York.

Eighteen minutes after landing, at 1:18, the same seven passengers and crew took off for Chicago in another ship.

AMUSEMENTS

MAJESTIC

The world's greatest lover, liar, goldsmith and all-around rogue! That is the personage portrayed by Frederic March in the title role of "The Affairs of Cellini," his first film for Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck's 20th Century Pictures company, in which he is co-starred with Constance Bennett, at the Majestic theatre today.

The love exploits of Don Juan, Casanova and other famous heart-breakers pale beside the escapades claimed by this braggart—and the fact that there was a price on his head and that kings and popes were forever being called upon to get him out of scrapes, is taken by scholars as corroboration of his claims.

The film comedy, which Bess Meredyth adopted from "The Firebrand," the sensational New York stage success, which Edwin Justus Mayer based on the autobiography, deals with Cellini's affair with the beautiful, amorous Duchess of Florence, in the person of Constance Bennett, and his impassioned pursuit of his exquisite, but stupid, model Angela, portrayed by Fay Wray. Frank Morgan re-enacts the role of the phillandering Duke, which he created with success in the stage play.

On a visit to Portland, Oregon, Strangler Ed Lewis, the wrestler, revealed that in the last 15 years he has traveled by airplane between 800,000 and 1,000,000 miles.

EXTENDS AUTO
CODE 90 DAYS

Prolonged by President Without Changes Asked By Labor.

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—NRA's rule over the big automobile industry was prolonged another three months by President Roosevelt, Friday.

In announcing extension of the automobile code without any of the changes which have been demanded by labor, the president disclosed plans for a study into employment stabilization within the industry. He expressed confidence of the co-operation of both management and labor.

This study will be made between now and February 1, the date to which the code's life was extended. Without the executive order, it would have expired Saturday night. Plans for the employment inquiry will be discussed at conferences to be called by the president upon his return from Hyde Park. Both manufacturers and labor will be invited to attend.

Not until after the conclusion of the study will President Roosevelt determine whether there should be public hearings on modification of the code—labor's chief demand.

Labor Accepts

The president's proposal, generally accepted as a compromise between conflicting labor and industrial interests, was acceptable to the chief labor spokesman consulted—Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and a member of NRA's administrative board. Hillman predicted the projected inquiry, if carried out as planned, would prove satisfactory to labor generally.

The president said at his press conference the request for a code extension had come from the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers and had been approved by the recovery board. Walter Chrysler and Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, conferred with the chief executive Thursday.
